U.M.P. Disclaimer

St. Paul's United Methodist Church and the Urban Mission Project (hereafter referred to as "we") provide this notice to all individuals and groups participating in an Urban Mission Project mission trip (hereafter referred to as "you" or "your"):

We are not responsible for any loss of personal property during your mission experience. Please do not bring electronics, expensive items, or sentimental items on your mission experience as there is no guarantee that the item(s) will be safe. Items can be stolen or damaged due to the nature of the work performed during your mission experience.

Please be sure to lock all vehicles and never leave anything valuable in your vehicle. We are not responsible for loss or damage to your vehicle or anything inside.

The churches that provide overnight accommodations for your group are not responsible for your group in any way. However, your group is responsible for any damage you may inflict on any property you are housed in. Please ensure that your group follows directions and does not disrespect our facilities in any way. We are all here to serve.

While we endeavor to provide a meaningful mission experience, we cannot guarantee your satisfaction with our program. You will work in the city of Toledo and you will have contact with the mission coordinators as well as the people you are serving. While we provide the worksites, site managers, and devotional material and guide, it is up to you to provide the spiritual experience for your group. With that in mind, if you have an idea that you would like our assistance with, please do not hesitate to present it to us. We are always interested in new ways to offer spiritual experiences to our young people.
